Making the move to Dubbo from Newcastle to follow a career in hospitality wasn't a difficult choice for Timothy Jackson, who is Front Office Manager for the City's newest accommodation outlet, Quest Serviced Apartments.

After successfully establishing himself at Quest Maitland, Timothy was offered a managerial position in Dubbo and jumped at the chance. "It was an overnight decision, I was offered the position and the next day accepted. Four weeks later I packed up my life in Newcastle and made the move to Dubbo," he said.

As Front Office Manager, Timothy is responsible for a large portion of the day to day running of the business including staff management, website development and liaison with the franchisee managers.

"I've been in Dubbo now for five months and I love it, we have great staff at Quest and Dubbo it is a fantastic place to live and work."

While there were similarities between Maitland and Dubbo – especially in corporate clientele, Timothy believed Dubbo's location as a regional centre and hub for Western NSW set the City apart from other locations.

"Dubbo is a hub for the region and there are numerous government and corporate agencies that meet and do business in the City due to its central location," he said.

"Quest Dubbo has been able to provide a service to this growing market by offering conference and function facilities which are in high demand and continue to increase in popularity."

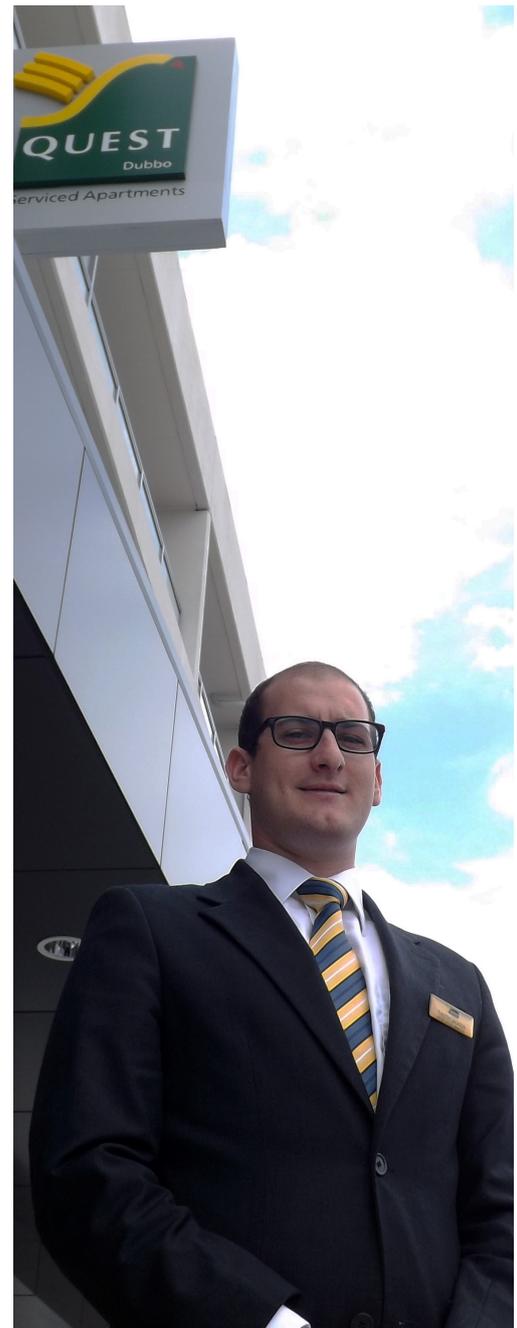

After only five months in the City, Timothy said he had already seen noticeable growth in Dubbo and believed with the establishment of gold, coal and rare mineral mines in the region, the city would only continue to develop.

"Dubbo is a hub for the region and there are numerous government and corporate agencies that meet and do business in the City due to its central location."

"As a newcomer to Dubbo, I see that it has many strengths, especially as a tourist destination. The Dubbo Regional Theatre and Convention Centre is an outstanding asset and definitely a drawcard for people visiting. Coupled with Taronga Western Plains Zoo, the Old Dubbo Gaol and the other tourist attractions in the city and outlying towns, Dubbo has so much to offer," he said.

Quest Serviced Apartments is a unique accommodation style for Dubbo and according to Timothy, there was definitely a need for the type of lodging it offers.

"Quest Dubbo brings a new level of accommodation to the heart of the Central West. The 4.5 star property offers a range of stylish and modern studio, one, two and three bedroom serviced apartments and onsite conferencing facilities all designed for the corporate or leisure traveller alike," he said.
